

Looking at the News with Col. Hugh Clark

Ferdinand Pecora alleges that J.P. Morgan gave a railway to the Van Sovergen brothers for nothing. We understand Mr. Morgan denies that he had any ill-will toward them or that he deliberately flim-flammed them.

A church conference deplores that in a depression year we drank thirty-eight million dollars worth of liquor. We acknowledge the corn but again we have to plead in self defence that the federal and provincial treasuries swallowed much of that money.

One way they took to avoid income tax in the United States was this: Just before making his return a man would sell stock to his wife and deduct the loss from his income. You can understand that anything a man sells his wife is a clean loss to him.

Now if we could only get them to pass laws forbidding publishers from sending out house-to-house canvassers for magazine subscriptions this world would become a better world to live in.

There are many diversions at the World's Fair but the Chicago water diversion is not one of them.

Promoters trying to float a mining company advertise that their claim adjoins a well-known paying mine. The source of tears, too, adjoins that of smiles.

Ferdinand Pecora gets $225 a month for his work in that Washington investigation. A Canadian lawyer doing similar work here for any Government would think himself a piker if he accepted less than that amount per day.

Recent Federal and provincial loans have been pronounced a great success and we are well to admit that a successful loan is the next best thing to no loan at all.

An English author declares he can never forgive Thomas Hardy for hanging Tess of the D'Urbervilles. A novelist, however, must be allowed the privilege of doing what he likes with his own. Hardy created Tess and, if he chose to hang her, whose business was it but his? She was probably predestined to die that way just as George Sedley was predestined to be slain at Waterloo by Thackeray.

It is harrowing to the reader no doubt but we must not think it is not more harrowing to the author. James Russell Lowell went for a walk with Thackeray one day. The novelist was quiet and morose and when Lowell asked him the cause of his gloom he replied "I have just killed Col. Newcombe." That's the way he felt about it although he had allowed the correctly, chivalrous Colonel to die of old age in second childhood. Hardy no doubt felt bitterly the fate of Tess as he led her to the scaffold.

What Germans would call an unbearably hot day would be quite tolerable to anyone in our Canada or the United States, and we can sympathize with Schmelling's contention that the awful heat the day of his fight with Baer was the cause of his downfall. Baer used to Californian heat could stand it where the German could not. "Had the weather been cool, the only sports writer who picked Baer to win might perchance have been the only false prophet."

The average prisoner is taken to jail as quietly and gently as possible, but it would appear from the speeches of Communist orators that their arrested comrades were "thrown" or "flung" into prison. The words are used under the license that goes with free speech.

Greater care in the selection of judges is the only thing that will prevent the repetition of incidents such as those connected with the conduct of Judge Stubbs and the protracted investigation into it.

O. L. McPherson Speaks to Constituents Sessional Affairs

Little Bow Electorate Hears of Department Investigation and Court Action

Delegates Affirm Faith in Member's Integrity

Attacks Both Public and Private Apparently Political Sniping

On Saturday, June 24, a convention of the U.F.A. of Little Bow constituency was held at Vulcan with an attendance of about three hundred, and with the Vulcan member, Hon. O. L. McPherson present. This is the first constituency convention since 1930, there having been no demand amongst the locals, and no vital questions requiring such a gathering.

Owing to the illness of Mr. Frederick, president, J. J. Dann officiated as chairman, and resolutions were dealt with prior to Mr. McPherson's address. Election of officers for 1933-34 resulted in the return of Mr. Frederick to the presidency. The secretary reported a good financial condition, with 17 U.F.A. locals, 5 U.F.W.A. and 7 Junior locals in the riding.

Resolutions
One resolution which carried after discussion, was that badgers and weasels be protected because of their destructive work on gophers. Another urged that more protection be given the fish at Lake McGregor to prevent wholesale removal of fish, and that the use of nets be forbidden.

A resolution relating to usurious rates and the need for national bank facilities was discussed but this was regarded as a resolution bearing on federal business and was referred back to the resolutions committee.

High River-Turner Valley Road
H. B. Macleod spoke to the resolution asking the Dept. of Public Works to construct a gravel road connecting High River and Turner Valley. He spoke on the great amount of traffic from south and east and the expense involved in circling the northern route. In the aggregate, the amount of time and money thus spent comes to a great deal, and the development of the south end of the Valley, warrants an all-weather road from that end.

Hon. O. L. McPherson, in replying to the resolution, said that there was no argument as to the need of the road, and the consideration which the proposal deserves. But the fact remained that the government was in straightened circumstances, and not one foot of new roadway would be built this year. It was sufficiently difficult to maintain present roads, in anything approaching adequate manner, and no new projects could possibly be considered at present. If, however, times got better, as they sometimes seemed to be doing, then the matter would at least be considered.

Speaks on Session
Mr. McPherson was then called upon to address his constituents on the work of the past session. Although stressing the great need for economy on the part of governments as well as individuals, and the present serious stringency—he had the impression that affairs generally were slightly better than a year ago. To an extent all Canada may be said to be facing a financial breakdown, but it looks as if Alberta would be able to look after itself and to weather through. He spoke in admiration of the indomitable spirit of the people, and urged that they not permit the depressing conditions to overwhelm them. During the last session, the main problem had been to keep the facilities and services of the country running without permanently harmful restriction. The consolidation of taxes seemed the best way in which the farmer might be aided to meet his taxes. The Debt Adjustment legislation was necessary to meet the needs of the moment. While all might not approve, it seemed the best method of bridging the chasm, and saving citizens from complete loss and ruin. The Exemption and Crop Payment legislation were also outcome of the present need to safeguard the interests of a very substantial portion of the people.

Highway Investigation
Referring to the charges made against the Public Works Dept. at the last session, and which after thorough investigation, proved completely without basis in fact, Mr. McPherson entered fully and clearly into the matter.

After the serious charges of extravagance and dishonesty had been made against the Public Works administration by Liberal Leader Howson, M.L.A., Mr. McPherson demanded immediate and thorough investigation of his department. This was encouraged by the government, and every assistance was given by the throwing open of all accounts and documents to the investigation committee. For three weeks the probe continued, the charges breaking down time after time as the chase continued. After cross examination the accuser's witnesses admitted misrepresentation of facts. Mr. Howson had apparently sought to win a temporary advantage, and stimulate feeling against the government, basing his charges on the flimsiest evidence, which completely collapsed under examination, bringing complete exoneration to the department.

One happy feature of the whole episode, was the attitude of members outside the government. Several of these, by no means friendly to the U.F.A. felt constrained, not only to dissociate themselves from Mr. Howson's attack, but to express disapproval of his methods or confidence in the department. Amongst these were Mr. Gibbs, Dr. Atkinson, Mr. Moyer, Fred White, Mr. Duggan and Mr. George Webster. Mr. Webster, former Liberal Leader, was in a difficult position, but courageously addressed the house, disclaiming any association with the attack. In his speech, which by the way never found its way into print, he considered the charges from the viewpoint of an experienced contractor, showing that some of the charges were evidently made through ignorance of engineering terms, and analyzing details of the criticism to show that no charge of laxity, carelessness or extravagance could be laid.

Cabinet Ministers
A question which rose as to the travelling expenses of Cabinet Ministers, was answered by the statement that last year the Cabinet Minister's expenses in this respect were $5,175. In checking figures back to 1920, it was found that the travelling expenses of that year were $15,070. Surely an economy in administration.

Recent Court Action
Mr. McPherson said that he felt great reluctance in inflicting any mention of his private affairs upon his audience. "But" he stated "there are some aspects of the case which may be properly mentioned at this time to those of my electorate who are interested. What may seem at casual glance to be a serious indictment may upon examination be found to indicate the worst kind of political persecution recorded in Canada. In support of that suggestion, I offer a few facts in connection with the case."

Gossip Ran Ahead
First: More than a month before the action was started against me, I had heard repeatedly through political sources that an action was to be taken against me.

IN EXPLANATION

This week the Vulcan Advocate is giving considerable space to the address of Hon. O. L. McPherson at the convention of last Saturday. It is giving to as full extent as possible, Mr. McPherson's statements in regard to his recent gruelling experiences both as Minister of Public Works and as a private citizen.

This has been done because the Advocate is convinced that Mr. McPherson has suffered under planned persecution, both in his public and private affairs. The Vulcan Advocate is an independent paper, having no association with any party, and emphatically not associated with the U.F.A. government which it feels free to criticize at any time.

However, the "drive" against Mr. McPherson, has been, in the opinion of this paper, so unjust and so unfair that we are glad of an opportunity to quote anything which he has to say in his own defense.

CONFIDENCE VOTE GIVEN MCPHERSON

Resolution Carried Unanimously at Little Bow Constituency Convention

The following resolution presented by and representing the opinion of U.F.W.A. locals of Arrowwood, Berrywater, Milo, Mayview and Kildale as well as the Junior locals of Johnny Canuck, East Milo, Queenstown and Arrowwood, was carried unanimously at the Little Bow constituency convention:

Whereas of late the mails have been flooded with marked copies of the Edmonton Bulletin addressed to voters in the Little Bow riding containing accusations against our provincial member, the Hon. O. L. McPherson,

And whereas no attempt is being made to present both sides of the case as only those pages are sent out that contain statements seemingly derogatory to Mr. McPherson,

And whereas we believe that this is being done by his political enemies for the purpose of misleading and misinforming the voters in his riding thereby hoping to destroy his political career.

Therefore be it resolved that this convention be recorded as denouncing such methods as being utterly despicable and contemptible, and unworthy of any political party, and further we express confidence in the integrity, efficiency and honor of our member, Hon. O. L. McPherson.

LOCAL ITEMS

As we go to press a general rain is falling and indications point to an all day rain.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Stack and family will leave by motor during the next week for a trip to the Maritime provinces.

Mayor E. King left on Friday for Chicago with a group of Nanton friends. The journey and visit while there to the World's Fair, will take three weeks. Hunter Heath, a former Vulcanite, was one of the party making the journey.

Misses Mona and Arlene Hanson were joint hostesses at a shower given in honor of Mrs. H. Hanson, nee Joanne Scott, on Tuesday evening of last week. About twenty-five guests spent a happy evening, during which many gifts were presented to the honored one. Luncheon was served and the guests all joined in wishing the bride the best of luck for future happiness.

Forty Hour Devotion Service at St. Andrews

For the first time in the history of St. Andrew's Parish was observed the devotion known as the "Forty Hours." This consists in the solemn exposition of the Blessed Sacrament before which the faithful keep continual watch for forty hours, each family spending one hour in prayer. A large number of visiting clergy lent added solemnity to the occasion. Solemn High Mass was sung Friday morning by the Rev. Fr. Anderson, with Revs. Frs. Dunbar and Arsenault as assistants. This was followed by the singing of the Litany of the Saints, Procession of the Blessed Sacrament and the solemn exposing of the Blessed Sacrament. In the evening a special sermon was preached by Father Dunbar.

On Saturday morning, Rev. Fr. Bowen was the celebrant at High Mass with Revs. Frs. Cunningham and Dunbar as assistants. Father Dunbar was again the special preacher of the evening.

The closing of the devotion took place on Sunday evening with a sermon by Father Rouleau, Procession of the Blessed Sacrament, singing of the Litany of the Saints, and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament given by Rev. Fr. Cunningham, assisted by Revs. Frs. McAdam and Killen.

The altar was very tastefully decorated with the choicest flowers and many lights. The parishioners are to be congratulated on the co-operation they gave in spite of many inconveniences in being faithful to the hours of adoration assigned to them and in helping to make the Devotion of the Forty Hours the great success it was. Many thanks are due, too, to the visiting clergy, who came from long distances to help to carry out the ceremonies with becoming dignity.

Vulcan Hears Exposition Douglas System Economics

Wm. Aberhart, B.A., of Calgary, Explains Proposed New Credit System

There were close to sixteen hundred people in the Vulcan arena on Thursday evening to hear Wm. Aberhart, B.A., of Calgary, give exposition on the Douglas System of Economics. Accompanying Mr. Aberhart to Vulcan were Ernest C. Manning, colleague of Mr. Aberhart, Richard Seaborn, violinist and Miss Preston accompanist. Mayor King occupied the chair and briefly introduced the speaker and his colleague to the audience.

Mr. Manning spoke first, stating that he and his leader were not wanting a new political party, nor were there any intentions of going into politics. He gave a general picture of conditions as they are today, and enumerated the problems, now unsolved, which he claimed the Douglas System would solve. Poor market prices, the high cost of machinery, unsatisfactory banking conditions, high interest rates, high cost of education, were the bulk of problems to be solved, and were essentially farmers' problems, stated the speaker. During his introductory address he appealed to the audience for an open-minded attitude.

Wm. Aberhart, B.A., principal of the Crescent Heights High School, and dean of the Prophetic Bible Institute, Calgary, in opening his lecture said the more he learned about the system, on which he would talk, the sounder it looked. Incidents in the career of Major Douglas were given, and the reducing of his system to a series of plans, one for England, one for Scotland, and one for Ireland, were cited. Major Douglas' visitation to Canada was mentioned as was the plan in Australia and New Zealand.

Three things were wrong with our present economic structure, said the speaker, these were that it was impossible to have enough purchasing power in circulation to buy the goods turned out by mechanized methods; that the flow of credit was being interfered with; and thirdly, that we allowed a certain amount of price madness to develop, the prices of goods bearing too loose a relation to the real value. Mr. Aberhart elaborated and gave apt illustrations to enlighten the audience as to these points.

Money, said the speaker, was only a mechanism of exchange—and had failed in this function. Non-negotiable certificates would supply the medium of exchange and adequate buying power, as proposed in the Douglas System. This credit would be a monopoly of the province and all credit required in industry would be supplied by the government. Every citizen would get a monthly allowance of basic dividends, just enough to supply food, clothing and (Continued Back Page)

Mrs. Margaret Barker Dies in Calgary

Wife of John Barker Passes Away While Visiting Daughter in Calgary

Margaret Elizabeth Barker, 67 years of age, wife of John Barker of the Vulcan district, passed away on Wednesday, June 21, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Sidney Moseley of Calgary. Funeral services were held from the Leyden funeral home in Calgary on Friday, at 3:30 o'clock; Rev. W. T. Young officiating. Burial was made in the Burnsland cemetery.

Many friends and neighbors attended the last rites and three from this district, P. M. Clark, D. E. Lilly and G. Galbraith, made half the number of pallbearers. The balance were from Swallow, Alberta, where Mrs. Barker had formerly resided.

The late Mrs. Barker was born in Orinmore, County Galway, Ireland, in 1866. She went to New Zealand in 1880 and married there in 1892. Residence was made in Alberta twenty-nine years ago at Swallow, later moving to the Vulcan district, south-west of town a few miles.

Surviving are her husband, her daughter, Mrs. Moseley, and two grandchildren, John Barker and William Alfred Moseley.

Smith and Scoutmaster Conn motored to Lomond recently and succeeded in interesting and forming a committee in that town for the formation of a Boy Scout troop. A troop in every town of the scout district is the objective of the Foothills council.

Two gunmen stopped D. A. MacDonald, well-known farmer of this district, on the road from Vulcan to his farm south of Brant, Monday evening, but failed to find a purse which the lone motorist had managed to hide in the car. Taking nothing and warning MacDonald not to report the attempted hold-up the bandits released him. Police, who have a good description of the men, are investigating.

The home of Mrs. Robt. Middleton was the scene of a delightful bridal shower on Tuesday, June 20th, in honor of Miss Bessie Rannels, whose marriage will take place the latter part of this week. Forty guests were present and had a most enjoyable time singing songs and playing games. Miss Rannels received many useful and beautiful gifts. A dainty luncheon was served, after which the guests departed wishing the bride-elect every happiness.

A recent change in the management of one of the "nine in a line" has been that of the Pioneer Grain Company elevator. Andy Law, who has operated the elevator for nearly three years was a short while back, transferred to the company's Ponoka business. Coming here to fill the position thus vacated is R. W. McFarlane of Edmonton. Mr. and Mrs. McFarlane and family have now made residence in Vulcan; and Mr. and Mrs. Low and family have journeyed to their new place of residence. Vulcan welcomed the newcomers and wishes the former citizens au revoir.

Three property transactions have been made in Vulcan during the past month. Lyle Snodgrass of High River, made purchase of the residence property on Apollo Avenue, from Wm. Herman; Wm. Jamieson purchased the residence premises, owned by Robert Dodds, on the corner of Vulcan street and Prairie avenue; and Paul Wittock made purchase of the Max Mutz property on Apollo street. The first purchase mentioned will include the renovating of the building into a funeral home, with a chapel, by the business in operation in Vulcan for the past three years known as the Snodgrass Funeral Home. All property is of the better class centrally located in Vulcan and the purchase by Wm. Jamieson includes the only brick dwelling in town.

The Vulcan ball club continued their losing record on Wednesday of last week when the Blackie club were the victors winning in a 12-3 score. On Monday evening the club journeyed to High River and still had the "inx above their heads. The score was 15 to 4 for the Foothill town boys. Both games were scheduled league fixtures. Next games here are arranged in the form of a tournament on Dominion Day (Saturday) when Vulcan plays Blackie and High River play Stavely, the winners of each game playing in the final. This will give the fans an opportunity to see all the teams of the league in action. The locals will be out to beat the Blackie group, the only team they have not defeated in the league as far as the schedule has advanced. Next week the local team will journey to Stavely. The same teams play at the Vulcan diamond today.

CHARLES CLARK, Proprietor

SAYS EAST TO WEST

An article by Col. J. H. Woods of Calgary, appeared recently in "Canadian Business," the official organ of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. It is a very direct statement of the Western situation, written in the hope that the East may understand the West more fully.

Western people cannot but feel that they have a real champion in Col. Woods, who dismisses all considerations but those vital to Western welfare.

The Lethbridge Herald in quoting freely from the article touches on the writer's advice that banks and mortgage companies voluntarily re-write their contracts.

"Make it so that the mortgagor again has hope that he can pay out; either that or the original investment will be lost. Much of the talk about vicious debt adjustment legislation in the Prairie Province legislatures would be unnecessary if the loan companies and banks would recognize the situation and re-write their contracts with farmers now."

Proceeding to tariffs, Col. Woods drives home the general Western opinion.

"The West considers that no Canadian tariff is ever framed in its interests as against the interests of Eastern Canada, and that therefore it is always paying, in relation to its business, an undue proportion of the country's obligations in that regard. In one way or another they have been framed primarily for the safeguarding and development of Canadian industry, which is located chiefly in the East. When we get it so that if we import from the United States we have to pay extra duty because United States money is worth more than ours, while in the case of Great Britain we have to pay extra duty because British money is worth less than ours, we feel that those who protect the industries of Canada are literally playing both ends against the middle.

"This is not a protest against the Canadian tariff system, which has many complexities, but it justifies the claim that, seeing we get less benefits and pay more proportionately in connection with customs tariffs than any other part of Canada, we are entitled to consideration in other respects to assist in our development.

"Western Canada, being chiefly dependent on exportable primary products for its wealth, obtains little, if any, selfish benefit from tariffs, and it cannot help feeling that wealth created by those tariffs, should be available in liberal measure to assist its producers. The money wealth of Canada is necessarily in the East, the primary production of Canada is largely in the West, and the best market for Eastern Canada is also in the West. When, therefore, owing to world conditions, the Western producer finds both his products and his lands greatly reduced in value, he feels a reasonable right in asking Eastern Canada so to adjust his obligations toward it as to put him back on his feet."—Lethbridge Herald.

TOO FAST DRIVING

There have been quite a number of comments on the speed at which some of the young people of the town drive their father's cars round the streets. The present social demands scarcely seem to justify this terrific rush to get from here to there. In fact, quite frequently there appears to be no object, except to the end of a block as fast as possible, in order that they can turn round and get to the other end as fast as possible. If they were on missions of life or death, or carrying tidings of great joy, their actions would be more understandable. But as everyone knows, they have all the time there is, to get where they are going, and, viewed in a large way, their errands are perhaps not particularly important. So there is really nothing to justify the rush.

Their violation of the rules of safety, good judgment and common sense are in most instances quite involuntary. They probably do not realize that they are regarded as danger spots in community welfare. But this is true.

Fast driving within the limits of the town holds grave dangers. On every street, little children are moving thoughtlessly to and fro, and must be safeguarded. On every street pedestrians are crossing from this side to that side, circulating harmlessly, and entitled to certain modest rights. They do not want to be mowed down, just because somebody is betting with himself that he can graze them but not kill them. When cars move as freely and in such numbers through town, as they do at present, every driver should show by his driving that he is a responsible person, considerate of the welfare of all others in his vicinity. That is ordinary courtesy and good manners.

Added to this, fast drivers are reminded of the very stiff penalties in the new Highway Traffic Act. If they violate highway regulations they are obliged to furnish proof of financial responsibility for accidents. In the case of young drivers who flirt with the possibility of accidents, it is assumed that they are depending on father to carry the burden if anything happens. This is scarcely a sporting attitude, and young people nowadays do pride themselves on sportsmanship. Under the new amendments, persons under 21, may be required to furnish proof of financial responsibility in applying for driver's licenses. So those who already have licenses should move very cautiously. It is easy to have a license cancelled in these days, and probably quite difficult to have it renewed. So have a care!

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE?

It is impossible to dismiss the tragedy which befel the three youths near Red Deer, last week, without considering what responsibility society must carry for these deaths. The evidence at the inquest seemed to justify gravest suspicion of a suicide pact, deliberate and unflinching. Three young boys, ranging in ages from 15 to 17 years, wandering through the country vainly seeking work! They are shamed remorselessly from town to town, forever ordered to move on, because they are not wanted. Their only home is a box car or a hobo hangout, along with embittered, seasoned professionals. With their parents on relief in Regina, they sought to better themselves by finding work elsewhere. After tramping through the chilly night, did they drop down dispirited and exhausted on the railway track, seeking to catch the first warmth of the sun? Did they fall asleep to be overtaken by a horrible death? Or on the other hand, did they stretch out deliberately side by side, and there wait through the long minutes for the southbound train to end the bleak and hopeless business of living. In either case, the tragedy is a ghastly blot on existing society.

If it was suicide, it indicates such stoicism and courage as might surely have been put to great use in a country which still requires and admires such virtues.

All round about, were food, clothing, money, which could have been obtained by theft. But apparently these boys preferred to retain their clean, law-abiding record, and quietly eliminate themselves from a hostile society. It is to be hoped they have entered into a happier world, where the courage and enthusiasm of youth are welcomed and given a chance. It is to be hoped they have entered a world where they have opportunity to become useful and valued citizens, to have home and love and a measure of comfort; where humans rank high above gold and power.

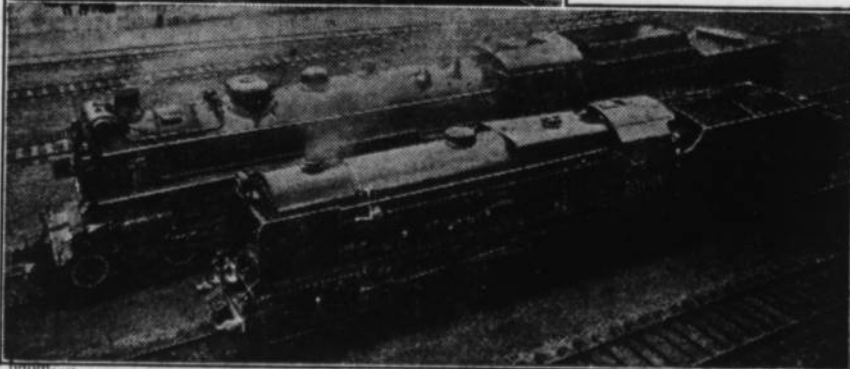

In short, a world far different from our own pathetic man-mangled civilization. We who still live and struggle, are strangled by the great God of money. And what is this money? Merely the sum total of the toil of masses of people, who should be rewarded in proportion to their capacity and desire for toil. But they are not. The wealth that should circulate amongst the masses is withheld to feed the greed of a few. All over the world the inability to earn or to realize on earnings is taking enormous toll in suicide, despair and untimely deaths. If these tragedies could be assembled, and laid definitely as a charge against those national leaders of the present system who are gathered now at the World Conference, would it bring home to these leaders their responsibility for human lives? Would it alter their regard for money and moneyed powers, and would it, at long last, open their eyes to a possible world in which the value of a human soul would be more precious than gold?

This is the story of a prudent man, as told by a Kansas newspaper: He brushed his teeth twice a day, wore rubbers in wet weather, did his daily dozen, slept with windows open, was careful with his diet, had a medical examination twice a year, never smoked, drank or indulged in any kind of excess. He was all set to live to be 100 years old. The funeral was held last Wednesday. He is survived by eighteen specialists, four health institutes, six gymnasiums and numerous manufacturers of health foods and antiseptics. He had forgotten to look out for a train at a grade crossing.

ALBERTA'S HOG RECORD IMPROVED

The steady improvement in the quality of Alberta hogs is strongly indicated in a survey recently completed by Provincial Agricultural officials. The record shows that in 1930, 628,935 hogs were marketed from this province, of which 6.13 per cent. reached the top grade as "selects." In 1931 the marketings totalled 723,352, of which 7.22 were "selects." In 1932 the marketings reached 1,008,452 head, of which 8.36 per cent. were selects. This shows a steady improvement in quality, but the more significant fact is that of the increased number of hogs marketed, a very large percentage fell within the higher grades. In two years the increase in marketings has been 379,517 of which 49,980 head were "selects." The increase in the number of selects in 1932 as compared with 1930 is 123 per cent. In 1932 there were 187,837 more bacon hogs marketed from the province than in 1930, an increase of 142 per cent. Over sixty per cent. of the increase of 379,517 hogs marketed in 1932 over 1930, were graded "bacons" or "selects." The volume of "selects" has increased in volume from 32,269 in 1930 to 63,858 in 1932. The percentage of "butchers" or the lowest grade hogs has decreased from 58 per cent. in 1930 to 45.6 per cent. in 1932.

PRICE RAISING AT WRONG END

Bright as is the promise of a rise in prices to farmers and many business men, it must not be overlooked that this is seen with a feeling almost of dread by some members of the community. These are the unemployed, to whom low prices for necessities have been a godsend enabling them to stretch their meager saving over distraught days. Or they are workers on greatly reduced time, to whom the cheapness of goods is the one boon that partly makes up for a shrunken envelope. "What are we to do," ask these people, "if bread and shoes and other things are to cost us more?" The question does not disprove the value, even necessity, of reflation, for the priming of the business pump must start somewhere. But it does raise a pointed warning as to how the impetus to an upturn should come about, and as to the order in which the various results of inflation should be felt.

O. L. McPherson Speaks

taken against me. Until the day I was served with the papers, I had no definite intimation of this action except from these rumors which in each case proved to have come from certain political circles.

Who Started the Action

Second: The action was commenced just 14 days before the polling day in the Camrose by-election. It was commenced by a defeated candidate who is a lawyer in a small town 60 miles east of Edmonton and who never actually took part in conducting the case in court.

Scurrilous Affidavit

A scurrilous affidavit was issued against me at the beginning of the action. This was stricken from the court records as scandalous and an abuse of court processes. It had no legal purpose but was freely circulated during the Camrose by-election, for the obvious purpose of injuring the U.F.A. Govt. and was later freely circulated by a former M.L.A. Further, during the Camrose by-election scores of copies of a libellous and anonymous letter were circulated. It purported to be signed by a woman, "Mary Christiansen." I at once offered a reward of $500 to anyone who could produce Mary Christiansen. There was, of course, no such person. Who was behind the circulation of this anonymous letter and that affidavit during the Camrose by-election?

Need of Money

Fourth: The statement of claim said that the plaintiff had no money. Yet thousands of dollars were incurred in costs and services. Who paid this enormous amount of money and why?

Action Delay

Fifth: This action was started in the forepart of last October. I wished to get to court as soon as possible but through a series of adjournments, amendments and appeals, the action was delayed till May 8, 1933. In the meantime a torrent of stories and attacks were made on me which I was unable openly to combat.

Political Men Meet Plaintiff

Sixth: Meetings of which I have knowledge, of prominently political men were held with the plaintiff.

Lawyers Concerned

Seventh: The original statement of claim was issued at the Court House by a person from the office of a prominent politician whose name has not been officially at least, connected with the case. How did this document come to be issued from this office?

Further a succession of lawyers, all of the one political faith have appeared for the plaintiff.

That Appeal for Money

Ninth: There was a circulation of an appeal for money contributions by a phoney organization with fictitious officers. Part of the mail resulting from this appeal was taken from the post office by a man who was once up before an Edmonton magistrate for stealing money from a blind newsmen.

Contributors to Hush

This same man is a contributor and representative of the paper called Hush. And I have documentary proof as to who sent in some contributions about myself to this same paper.

The Double Attack

Tenth: In connection with the attack on my department in legislature, I want you now to consider a very curious fact. That attack was launched on the floor of the House just two days before the first scurrilous article appeared in Hush. Very strange was it not that two such terrible blows should come so close together? Think it over.

Enter Edmonton Bulletin

Eleventh: How did it happen that copies of the Edmonton Bulletin containing the story of the recent action against me were circulated free throughout my constituency for the first few days of the trial, but not when I went on the stand to defend myself against these charges. Who was anxious that only the accusations against me should be broadcast? Who paid for distribution?

Why the Attacks?

Twelfth: Who systematically starts and spreads a thousand and one lies about me that go out over the province? Was it because I am such an unspeakably bad man, or that anyone thinks I am? Was it because anyone has so much against me personally or was it the government through me, that was object of attack? Was it not intended as a knockout for the whole farmer movement? If such dastardly persecution by a gang of political guttersnipes could succeed, what public man or what institutions are safe?

In conclusion Mr. McPherson addressed the audience of friends of long standing. "One does not change one's nature in a short time," he said

"You have known me for twenty-five years, and I can say without fear or hesitation that I am a better man today both mentally and morally than I ever was."

Briefly, but with a deep feeling of pride, Mr. McPherson referred to the unswerving loyalty and support of his sons, the three eldest of whom are "big sons," capable of using judgment and reaching decisions. Despite the natural tendency of children to range on the side of their maternal parent, these three elder boys are loyal to him and with him to the last. "They have suffered with me and fought for me. My youngest son, thank God, is too young to know anything about this. I would ask you to ask yourselves 'Why are that man's sons standing behind him as they are?'"

RURAL MUNICIPAL FINANCES GOOD

Hon. R. G. Reid Reports Revenue Collected in Municipal Dept. Exceeds Estimated Revenue

Rural municipal finances in Alberta, all conditions and depressions to the contrary notwithstanding, are in a gratifying healthy state, according to Hon. R. G. Reid, minister of municipal affairs, who has been looking into the general record of the rural municipalities for the last calendar year and the first half of the present year.

A reduction of fully 50 per cent in liabilities of the municipal districts is one of the high lights. Collections have been maintained to a surprisingly marked degree.

Less than $18,000 was the total bonded indebtedness of the rural municipalities as at December 31st. Outstanding bank loans were about $500,000 with ample security by way of uncollected taxes and other realizable assets.

Considerable improvement over the preceding year is indicated by these facts and figures.

The revenue collected by the department of municipal affairs for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1932, exceeded the estimated receipts for that year while there was a saving in departmental and also for the year before, mental expenditures of some $10,000.

BUSINESS SWING IS ENCOURAGING

But Better Balance Between Prices Are Necessary for Prosperity

The June report issued by the National City Bank of New York, covers the field of economic conditions and governmental finance. It declares that the business upswing continuing during May is very encouraging. Advance has been more than seasonal.

Improvement in international relations is a factor in the optimistic feeling. At the Economic Conference on June 12, the nations are approaching in concert for the first time, the problems of currency, demoralization and trade restrictions. President Roosevelt's disarmament message to the nations of the Conference also adds a more hopeful atmosphere.

Economists of all schools of thought agree that a better balance between prices is essential to restore prosperity and that higher prices for staples that are depressed, are needed, their differences of opinion having to do only with the means employed to bring this about.

Teachers salaries at Nanton suffer reduction.

Vulcan Softball Team

Win Second Place at Brant Tournament; Win All League Games Played

Little has been said in this journal of the success of the Vulcan softball team this season. The team has enjoyed a wonderful season with the schedule of the Southern League well advanced. Five games played with the league teams, Kirkcaldy, Union Jack and Sunny Glen, resulted in wins and the locals have top standing with nine points. Union Jack follows with seven points and Kirkcaldy and Union Jack hold third and fourth position with six and nil points.

At Vulcan the team defeated Kirkcaldy 12-4, Sunny Glen 16-6 and Union Jack 21-4. Games away include Sunny Glen 11-8, and Kirkcaldy 17-11.

The team recently played in the Brant tournament, defeating High River and Union Jack to be placed in the finals against Brant. Brant won 7-4 and the local took second money.

Many exhibition games are included in the activities of the team. Some are won and some are lost, but the majority are on the long end of the score.

Coming events in the softball circles includes the tournament in connection with the Elks' Dominion Day celebration on this Saturday. Five teams have entered: Kirkcaldy, Union Jack, Sand Pit, Ensign and Vulcan. The locals will entertain the Calgary White Spots on Sunday, July 9th, and a large gallery is anticipated.

NORMAN PRIESTLY TALKS ON C C F

Norman Priestly, vice-president of the U.F.A. addressed a meeting on the evening of Saturday, June 24 at the I.O.O.F. hall. The attendance was not as large as at the afternoon meeting. His address was in explanation of the C.C.F. movement, but in his treatment did not appear to satisfy his audience entirely. He criticized the governments of today, the financial institutions, and gave replies to several questions asked by people present relative to the C. C. F. movement.

On Sunday, June 25th, the adults and children of the Kirkcaldy Sunday school met at the hall where cars were lined up ready to convey every one to the picnic grounds at the Y.T. west of Champion. There were about fifty present. Dinner was served at 1:30, after which everyone was given a generous treat of ice cream and lemonade. The parents and others did all they could to give the children a good time. Swimming and football were the source of enjoyment. At 4:30 all started for home after a most pleasant day.

shelter, under the basis of the system. Commercial credits would be advanced to farmers, manufacturers, merchants and exporters, interest free. All this was explained with the use of cloth charts, that cleared many technical points. One of these, "The Perfect Cycle," showed how, under the proposed plan goods would flow around in one direction, and credit in the other, to meet in an unbroken stream. The state credit house, the only source of credit, occupied the top of the picture.

All wages earned, over and above the basic dividends, would be spent for the better comforts of life. The basic dividends were not wages, but the individual's share of natural resources of the province, the speaker stated. The dividends would be spent as received, thus hoarding would be abolished under the plan. If a person wanted to save for some purpose, as buying a car or house, taking a trip, and so on, he might buy government bonds payable at a stated time and bearing 4 per cent. interest. Through use of the chart, "The Perfect Cycle," an explanation of how this saving would benefit everyone coming under the plan, was given.

After the lecture, Mr. Aberhart replied to questions on export trade, exchange, citizenship qualifications, avoiding any illegal "Scrip" form of circulation and questions on many other puzzling features, to the audience.

Mr. Aberhart has given much time to the study of the subject and conveys it in a sincere manner to the people.

Interlude music was played by Mr. Seaborn, violinist, accompanied by Miss Preston at the piano, and was greatly applauded by the listeners.

The undertaking of providing the Vulcan district with the lecture was taken by an interested committee of citizens. The organization meeting of a class to study into the possibilities of the plan will be held on Monday, July 3.

A silver collection was taken at the meeting and a statement of expenses and receipts is given by the chairman of the committee, Mr. C. H. Hoskyn, in another column.

Copies of Mr. Aberhart's digest of the system, with a plan for Alberta, were on hand at the meeting, as were copies of a resolution for circulation and presentation to the legislature.
